DYFED-POWYS POLICE AND CRIME PANEL
5TH FEBRUARY 2021

COST OF POLICING ASYLUM SEEKERS CAMP AT PENALLY

The decision by the Home Office to establish an asylum seekers camp at Penally, Pembrokeshire has placed a significant operational and financial burden on Dyfed-Powys Police.

To the end of December 2020 policing the camp has involved 13,919 hours of officer time, of which 9,681 hours are overtime (at a cost of £297,000).

Under the Home Office rules relating to police funding, special grant funding can be drawn down in respect of these pressures, but only once the total cost exceeds 1% of the net revenue expenditure for the year. This means that normally it would not be possible to draw down any additional funding until a threshold of £1.129million is exceeded.

However, Government ministers do have the power to allow the recovery of costs below the 1% threshold.

Following discussions between the Panel chair and the Police and Crime Commissioner, the Panel is requested to support the sending of letters to the Home Secretary, Policing Minister and all MPs in the force area (one of whom is the Secretary of State for Wales) calling upon the Home Office to fully reimburse Dyfed-Powys Police for all costs incurred in policing Penally camp, even if below the usual 1% special grant threshold.

Draft letters are attached for the approval of panel members.
