THE JO COX COMMISSION ON CIVILITY

The Jo Cox Civility Commission was launched on the 28th February 2023 and seeks to drive change in British democracy by working to find implementable solutions to make life safer for political representatives and candidates for office.

In the last seven years, two MPs have been murdered in their constituency and many more elected politicians have faced physical assaults and threats. The Commission has been established by The Jo Cox Foundation to raise awareness of the detrimental impact on individuals, democracy and society, of the current levels of abuse and intimidation in political life.

The report provides a summary of the Commission's progress and on how Councillors can engage with the Commission on its work.

The Welsh Local Government Association (WLGA) is submitting a response and the Authority can input or alternatively contact the commission directly.
